CONGRESSIONAL

Eighty-One New Men to Be in the House.

UNCLE JOE TALKS

HINTS GIVEN OF COMMITTEE PLACES DESIRED.

Many of the New Men Will Be Heard

To-morrow at noon eighty-one "congressional kids" will occupy seats in the hall of the House of Representatives and for the first time will watch, with varying emotions, the rise and fall of the Speaker's gavel as he calls the House to order. Of the eighty-one only a small proportion have had any legislative experience, but under the tutelage of "Uncle Joe" Cannon and the other veterans of the lower House they will absorb wisdom with surprising rapidity. There are some men among the eighty-one 'congressional kids" who will undoubtedly be heard from in the future-perhaps not this session to any great extent, for it is seldom that a new member makes his presence felt so early in the game-but certainly in sessions to come. There are others, too, of course who will occupy their seats in the chamber of the House, will vote dutifully along party lines when callled upon to do so and who will go back at the end of this session and perhaps other sessions unhonored and unsung.

Opinion of Veterans.

New members don't amount to muchsave as available material for the leavenin the eyes of the old wheel horses. They get their obscure committee places-most of them-and they work and play and occasionally they make their voices heard on the floor. They are the plebes of the lower House and their idea of their own impor-tance and the idea the veterans have of the same thing are in an exceedingly in-For the past week or so the kids have been drifting into the Speaker's room in ones and twos and threes to say "howdy" and incidentally to hint that a place on the appropriations committee or the ways and means committee would be acceptable. If Uncle Joe took all these hints the membership of these two great committees would be up in the hundreds and there wouldn't be a corporal's guard left to keep the relatively less important committees from getting musty.

Among new members of the Fifty-ninth Congress, but one who is not in the "kid" class, is Julius Kahn of San Francisco, a member of the Fifty-seventh Congress, who was defeated for re-election to the Fiftyeighth by Representative Livernash, the long-haired socialist from the Pacific coast. Mr. Kahn, actor and orator and general good fellow, was one of the most popular members of the Fifty-seventh Congress, and his return to Washington is welcomed by host of friends he left behind two years

Hiram R. Burton of Lewes, Del., is the compromise candidate selected by the reg-ular and union republican forces of that dis-sension-torn little state. John H. Foster, another kid, succeeds Representative Hem-menway of Indiana, chairman of the appropriations committee in the last Congress, who is now a full-fledged senator, and whose place in the House will be filled by the elevation of Representative Tawney

Rockwood Hoar.

One good, old Massachusetts name is re vived in Congress this year by the presence in the House of Rockwood Hoar, a "kld" from Massachusetts and a son of the late Senator Hoar of revered memory. Mr. Hoar is a bright and energetic man, not so extremely youthful as years go, who is expected to make a congressional record worthy of his distinguished father. Edwin Denby, a new member from Mich-

gan, is a brother of Charles W. Denby formerly minister to China, and who only recently succeeded Colonel Michael as chief lerk of the State Department. Denby, who is a young man, as ages go n the House, saw ten years' service in Chinese empire, a good portion of the time in the service of the dowager empress. And he would have remained over there, being delighted with the service and fond of the country, but his longing for the United States and the familiar sights and sounds of Michigan got too strong for him and he resigned. But he couldn't stay out of some kind of government service, and he made a fight and won out, succeedng Alfred Lucking of Detroit. By a long ways the oldest member of the kid fraternity in the Fifty-ninth Congress is Representative Thomas B. Davis of Keyser, W. Va., a septurgenarian and a brother of Henry Gassaway Davis, unsuccessful candidate for the vice presidency on the democratic ticket with Alton B. Par He succeeds Judge Dayton, who went to the federal bench. And the biggest man physically among the kids is Andrew J. Barchfeld of Pittsburg, Pa. According to some of his friends Mr. Barchfeld will run Cy Sulloway, who at present wears the belt, a close race for the heavyweight championship of the House.

Anthony Michalek is a picturesque figure from Chicago, and the story of the winning of his seat is rather out of the ordinary. Michaiek, who is a steadfast republican, halls from the fifth Illinois district, which is Chicago territory, and up to last fall was heavily democratic. Michalek got the nomination for practically the same reason that Representative Shober of New York secured it for the last Congress-no one else would have it. And Michalek, when he accepted, was so sure that he wouldn't be anywhere around wen the polls closed that he made a stipulation that whenever his name was mentioned in speeches and wherever it should be used in campaign litera-ture he should appear as "Michalek, the grocer." "In that way," argued this canny citizen, "I can't lose, and when the polls close and I have been snowed under I will at least have gained some good advertis-ing for my business. But when the votes were counted Michalek was on top, and it is said that he was the most surprised man in his district at the time-and there were many others. A Far Southern Republican.

Nathan W. Hale of Knoxville is that rare thing, a far southern republican. He is a colleague and friend of Representative Brownlow of Tennessee, and is, besides Brownlow, the only republican in the delegation from that state. Mr. Hale is a serious, hard-working citizen, who thinks that President Roosevelt is just about right, and who will support the administration measures.

Oregon has the doubtful honor of having an indicted delegation of two, both members out of the kid class. They are Binger Hermann and John N. Williamson, both of whom were indicted not long ago for alleged complicity in the Oregon land frauds. Hermann was for some years commissioner of the general land office, finally being ousted and leaving Washington under a cloud. The delegate from New Mexico is William H. Andrews, who recently achieved notoriety through his connection with the wrecking of the Enterprise Na-

In the Virginia delegation is the governor of the old dominion, Claud N. Swanson, who was elected to that high office last month, but who has not yet resigned his seat in the House.

seat in the House.

The above are only a few of the interesting figures of the Fifty-ninth Congress, who come to Washington, most of them without brass bands, press agents or other congressional delights. The people of the city who follow the proceedings of the national legislature—and there are many of them—will probably come to know them better before long. Some of them, at least, are men who will make their presence felt almost anywhere, even in the House of Representatives, where the cold towel and the wet blanket are applied to budding ambitions with distressing regularity during a session of Congress. session of Congress.

PERU FOR PROGRESS.

Minister to This Country. LIMA. Peru. December 2.-The Commer clo this evening, commenting on the appointment of Felipe Pardo as Peruvian minister to the United States, says it is necessary that Peru should be prepared in a new direction. The policy of the United States, it says, is evident from the possible visit to Brazil of Mr. Root, the American Secretary of State, to attend the Pan-American congress at Rio Janeiro, if it should be held there. Peru is not wavering before the future, the paper adds, and it applauds President Roosevelt's initiative and says it is assured that closer relations between the United States and Peru will bring to Peru more capital and more enterprise.

The fears of some of the Spanish-American nations regarding the United States, the Commercio says, are inexplicable and the ideas of conquest held by Peruvians are absurd. Commercial sway by the United States, the paper contends, should be desired as it would result in the paper. be desired, as it would result in the peop-ling and development of unproductive regions. Senor Pardo, the Commercio con-cludes, holds these ideas and is the right man in the right place.

BEGGED SURGEONS TO KILL HIM. If Operation Would Result in Permanent Lunacy. ANN ARBOR, Mich., December 2 .- Restored from seemingly hopeless lunacy to complete sanity yesterday by a surgical operation at the University Hospital, William Dwyer, in a momentary period of control, after being placed on the operating table, had begged the surgeons to kill him with their lancets if it appeared that he would always have to be crazy.

Two years ago in a smelter furnace at Portland, Ohio, Dwyer's skull was crushed, being hit by a steel rail. After an apparent recovery he became a month ago a raving maniac. In the operation it was demon-strated that his mental trouble was entirely due to an abscess in his brain. This was successfully removed and a silver plate about two inches square fitted in the hole that the surgeons had made in the skull. Then the scalp was sewed in place and the patient is well on the way back to his former usefulness.

INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY.

True Bills Found Against Former Philadelphia Officials.

PHILADELPHIA, December 2.-Former Director of Public Safety A. L. English, former City Architect Philip H. Johnson, James D. Findlay, a former city employe and John W. Henderson and H. Baton, members of a contracting firm, were indicted today by the grand jury on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the city in connection with the construction of a small city hospital. Mr. English was director of public safety during the administration of Mayor Ashbridge. Johnson and Findlay are relatives of Israel During ham, the republican leader. The men were arrested soon after Mayor Weaver's break with Durham and other republican leaders. No date has been set for the trials.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., December 2 .- A discovery of unusual importance has been made at Peabody Museum of Yale University. Beginning about 1860, the late Prof. O. C. Marsh started the collection of antiques of the Chiriqui Indians of the prov-ince of Panama. He continued buying the collection for nineteen years until 1879. He stored the collection in unopened boxes in an obscure part of the museum. George Grant McCurdy, head of the an-thropological section of the museum, opened this almost forgotten collection. It is to be much larger than was expected and to have an exceptional value. It consists of more than 5,000 different objects, largely pottery, and the whole is the most com-plete of its kind in the world. The Chiri-qui Indians as represented by the collec-tion had a civilization in prehistoric times second only to the Aztecs.

WHEELING, W. Va., December 2-The Curtin Lumber Company plant at Curtin, W. Va., was totally destroyed by fire today, entailing a loss of $50,000. Several million feet of lumber were destroyed and practically nothing was saved. The company is the largest operating in West Vir-ginia. The origin of the fire is unknown. Reports show that the fire is quite serious. The forest surrounding Curtle is burning and threatens to devastate the entire timber region of Nicholas county. The fire is spreading on all sides and the loss has exceeded $100,000. Unless rains check the fire it is thought the damage will total nearly a million dollars. SUSPECT IN CUSTODY.

William Darley Accused of Assault and Robbery in Alexandria.

William Darley, the young man who is alleged to have assaulted and attempted to rob Mrs. Ellen Nugent, the elderly woman who conducts a saloon and grocery store in Alexandria, referred to in yesterday's Star, was arrested last night by Policemen Raedy and Brown of the Anacostia police district. He was found in the house of eLonard Lanham on Anacostia avenue between Ben-ning and Twining City, and was asleep when the policemen called at the house. When aroused and placed under arrest he denied that he even knew Mrs. Nugent, but before reaching the police station he ad-mitted his identity, and also said he had been in Mrs. Nugent's house. He told the policemen that he was there yesterday af-ternoon, and that he went to the house for the purpose of arousing John Nolan, a friend, and that Mrs. Nugent caught him in there. He denied that he assaulted Mrs. Nugent, or that he attempted to rob her

SANTA FE OFFICIAL RESIGNED.

First Vice President Kenna Retired From Railway World. CHICAGO, December 2.-Edward Dudley Kenna, first vice president of the Atchison. Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, has resigned. Mr. Kenna is spending an indefinite period in Europe, and today conveyed his resignation to President Ripley by cable. His retirement from the railroad world is said to be largely due to the loss of a favorite child while Mr. Kenna and his family were in Paris a few weeks ago. The death of the child is said to have affected the health of Mrs. Kenna, and Mr. Kenna has decided to remain with her indefinitely in the south of Europe. Mr. Kenna has been with the Santa Fe since 1895, when the United States court appointed him solicitor for the receivers of the property. On reorganization of the property Kenna was made first vice president and general solicitor. No steps have been taken as yet to fill the vacancy made by Mr. Kenna's resigna-

Henry Watterson, surrounded by half a dozen of his political and personal friends, sat down in a cozy corner of the Willard Hotel last evening and discussed things generally. After respectful reference to the "Star-eyed Goddess" (whoever she may be) the colonel drifted to such more material questions as municipal ownership and railother, and in the indictments are named road rate regulation.

a number of independent firms whose "In the first place," began Mr. Watterson (of Louisville and Paris), "It may interest result of the operations of the Illinois you to know that I have never written a line in my own paper concerning railroad rate legislation, and I've been mighty shy on municipal ownership conversation. But I did my first piece of reporting for The Star, away back in 1853, and I don't mind giving you a scoop on my opinion, if you think it will add to the gayety of nations. When I got back in dear old Louisville last August, after a year abroad, I found the town in the throes of a political contest. My affectionate enemies were dreadfully busy, and things looked blue for such friends as I had left.

"Well, sir, I got to work, and for seven weeks I did not know there was any place on the map outside of Louisville. I had troubles of my own, without thinking of railroad rate legislation or municipal owner railroad rate legislation or municipal owner-ship. The result was that my friends won out by a majority of 4,000, when all along they had expected to get licked by from 20,000 to 30,000 majority. So much for that, but it took so much of my time that I do not believe I can talk intelligently concern-ing these great public questions." (As if a ing these great public questions." (As year abroad and seven weeks' indulgence a local campaign could dim the Louisville editor's perception of national affairs!) Municipal and Public Ownership.

"Generally speaking, we should not con fuse municipal ownership with public ownership. There are many properties which a city might with profit control-such as gas works, the water works and the like-but when it comes to the operation of railroad lines by the municipalities that is different; very different. That would be sure to lead to boundless corruption, and would be but a prelude of national ownership of the great transcontinental railroad systems. This would soon include the ownership of the telegraph lines and the telephone service, all of which would mean the dissolution of the government by public opinion. With the government in such absolute control of the railroads and the telegraph what show would the poor outsiders have? We might as well abolish the elective form of government and give the President a life tenure. ment and give the President a life tenure of office, or else establish the hereditary form of government.

I believe that in the end there will come a general publicity act that will provide for the remedy of the more serious evils com-plained of. The insurance scandals have at least done this much good. At present the people do not know exactly what they want and Congress does not know exactly what to give them.

A Story in Point

"The story is told of a Spanish premier who was appealed to by a mob of workmen. These workmen imagined they were being ill-treated and they surrounded the house of the premier, demanding that he speak to them. Finally the premier raised a window and, thrusting out his head, asked:
"'What do you folks want?' And the

'We demand our rights.' "I grant them to you, responded the premier, whereupon the men dispersed, and that was the end of their discontent. It is much the same way with the people on this railroad question. On the whole, I think the country is doing fairly well."

TO FIGHT AMERICAN INVASION. Lower Shipping Rates to South African Ports Needed. Special Cablegram to The Star. LONDON, December 2.-An important step toward the lowering of the shipping rates upon goods sent from Great Britain to South Africa is being taken. A member of the South African merchants' committee explained the situation as follows: "Where an American manufactures makes the same sort of goods as a British manufacturer," he said, "the cost of carriage to the ports of South Africa is in favor of the American goods. The bulk of the goods sent from England to South Africa go at the rate of 30s, per ton. A little while ago the rate from America was from 15s. to 20s. per ton. That very low rate was due, of course, to the American freight war; but that is over now, and the American merchant has to pay the ship-owner from 25s. to 27s. per ton against

"We hope some good will come out of the colonial office conference, the date of which is not yet fixed. It is suggested that the government should fix all the freight rates, putting the carrying of the goods out to tender, and there is a good deal of specuto tender, and there is a good deal of speculation as to whether the government will do this as an outcome of the conference. At present the carrying of British goods to South Africa ports is in the hands of the "conference lines." These are the Union Castle Line, Bucknall Brothers, Clan Line, Houston & Co., Ellerman, Harrison & Co., Rennie & Son, and Bulard, King & Co. These seven shipping lines and the govern-ment authorities in South Africa and the merchants' executive board are all to be represented at the colonial office confer-

Burglar Shot by Patrolman. PHILADELPHIA, December 2 .-- Blake Bonnefield, said by the police to be a notorious thief, was shot and probably fatally wounded today by a policeman. Bonnefield was discovered by Patrolman Driscoll in the act of attempting to enter a dwelling by means of a false key. Bonnefield ran and the policeman shot him in the back, the bullet piercing his spinal cord. The hospital physicians say that should the wounded man recover he will be a helpless paralytic. Bonnefield says his home is in Chicago.

ELECTION IN FRANCE

Host of Candidates Proposed as Nominees for President.

Special Cablegram to The Star. PARIS, December 2.-The approaching presidential election weighs perceptibly on the general trend of French domestic politics. There are legions of candidates. In fact, it is doubtful if there ever have been so many. There is M. Fallieres, president of the senate, whose chance is said to be good, though it is remarked that his name has been too long before the chambers and the public and too much discussed. Then M. Leon Bourgeois is still spoken of as a likely candidate, and in some respects, if not in all, as a suitable one. M. Doumer. the energetic president of the chamber of deputies, is another favorite, though not with the advanced republicans, a circumstance which contributes to make him popular with the center and right of the chamber. Some people think that M. Ribot would make a good president, though he, too, lacks the support of the advanced element.
It is believed that the prime minister, M.
Kouvier, would not refuse the presidency of the republic if offered to him. A someform of government.

"As to the railroad question," Mr. Watterson remarked, "I think it is mostly a tempest in a teapot. The railroad question will settle itself by a compromise act of Congress which will leave the railroads and the shippers in exactly the same position toward each other that they now occupy. looking toward the matter of his candi-dature. Last but not least, one hears it whispered that M. Loubet himself might at the last moment be prevailed upon to stand for a second term, and that would cer-tainly afford a solution that would be viewed with considerable favor abroad as well as in France, but hitherto M. Loubet and his friends have emphatically declared that he is bent on retirement.

Not All Politics.

The position may be won by a dark horse, as it has been on previous occasions, but for the moment the best-informed members of both chambers are at sea as to who is likely to be the future president. As a general thing the election in France is not decided exclusively on purely political considerations. The general personality of the candidate has something to do with It. In the present precarious condition of international affairs the congress—that is to say the two chambers assembled for the purpose-will be doubly cautious whom they elect as chief of state. Now that the question of separation has been practically disposed of, apparently there is no problem of first-rate magnitude in domestic politics calculated to have any great influence in the choice of the next president. BRITISH INTERESTS TOUCHED.

Report of United States Consul at Calcutta Causes Great Discussion.

Special Cablegram to The Star. CALCUTTA, December 2.-No end of newspaper discussion throughout India has been stirred up by the report of the United States consul of Calcutta in which he informed the manufacturers of America that there was a great opening for trade in Bengal owing to the native boycott of Britsh goods on account of the partition of the province. The following is a section of the report which appears to have stirred up endless discussion: "When it is remembered that the popula-tion of Bengal is about 76,000 it will be seen what an immense market there must be here. This is especially the case with cotton piece goods, the principal clothing of the natives, of which about 96 per cent of the natives, of which about 95 per cent comes from the United Kingdom, and for the manufactures of iron and steel, of which about 65 per cent comes from the United Kingdom. Because of the boycott this market is now open to American manufacturers as never before. The representatives of several large native firms have recently been to see me and are ready and anxious to make connections with our manufacturers and exporters."

DOCTRINES OF HENRY GEORGE. Views of Distinguished Economist Quoted in Irish Campaign. Special Cablegram to The Star.

DUBLIN, December 2.-It would be a strange thing indeed if the combined land and Irish question should force to the front during the rapidly appreaching general election some of the views of the late Henry George upon the subject of the taxation of "land values." It subject of the taxation of "land values." It will be remembered that Henry George took a deep interest in the subject of land taxation in Ireland and that some of his enthusiastic supporters, men like Father McGlynn, were of Irish birth and extraction. This is not to say that there is any particular danger of a single tax campaign in Ireland just at the present time. But practical politicians say that the subject of the taxation of land values, not in the sense in which many single taxers understand it, but paralleling many propositions of the former author of "Progress and Poverty," is a burning question just at the present time. And they go a step farther—they acknowledge that when the new parliament meets it promises to become one of the important questions if not the paramount issue of the hour.

The most interesting contribution to the political and economic questions that are agitating Ireland, and for that matter the entire united kingdom, is an article just published by ex-Ballle John Ferguson on the subject, "Taxation of Land Values; a Retrospect and a Forecast." It sounds as though it might have been written by Henry George or one of his followers, but the writer, who is nothing if not a student of practical politics, tells of the history of the movement in Ireland in particular, and the united kingdom in general. He claims that the subject has been pushed will be remembered that Henry George took of practical of the movement in Ireland in particular, and the united kingdom in general. He claims that the subject has been pushed to a position where legislation is inevitable. He is naturally proud of the achieve-table.

So far, it is true, no bill for the taxation of land values has been presented to parliament. The view of the promoters has been that different conditions made different methods of applying the principles of land taxation necessary in each of the three kingdoms. to Be Financial Invasion. Special Cablegram to The Star. LONDON, December 2.—An unobtrustve little notice sent out recently through the ordinary medium of a city news agency stated that Messrs. Raymond Pynchon & Co. of the New York Stock Exchange have opened branches in London at 26 Austin Friars, E. C., and 7 Waterloo place, W., in direct connection with their New York house. This notice did not attract a great house. This notice did not attract a great deal of attention at the time, but it is now being regarded as the beginning of an American invasion. Certainly it is the talk of the stock exchange here. It is known that three other American stock exchange firms are following these pioneers and are preparing to open London branches. The reason of this development is that some of the Wall street brokers think that at present business facilities are not suffi-

at present business facilities are not suffi-ciently good between New York and Lon-don, and that information and satisfactory don, and that information and satisfactory prices are not always too readily forth-coming. They regard the arbitrage system as a little rusty. Yet these great arbitrage firms, highly scientific and skilled, dealing between the New York markets and London in a business complicated by rapidly moving prices, cable delays and the difficulties of exchange, have for years satisfied the business requirements. satisfied the business requirements of London and New York.

It is just as though the London Stock

Exchange firms established branches in America or in English provinces. At times there have been whispers to this effect, ru-mors of provincial brokers coming to London and vice versa. But it has been sup-posed that the British stock exchange committees have been opposed to this representatives of Messrs. Raymond, Pynchon & Co. as to the reasons for their departure. Mr. Reginald C. Brown, repre-senting the firm in London, while declining to give out a direct and formal interview. explained the reasons, giving many of the points above noted, saying that the firm had direct connections with Chicago as well as the Wall street exchange, and that they regarded London connections as being equally important with those of Chi-

For a Big Tuberculosis Congress. Far more important than any of its prede cessors will be the international congress on tuberculosis, which will be held in this country in 1908, according to the opinion of Dr. Lawrence F. Flick of Philadelphia. Dr. Flick has decided upon a general plan which he outlined last evening in an address at New York.

The entire plan, however, is conditional and depends upon the success of the committee on arrangements in an effort to raise at once a sum of money sufficient to carry the plans into effect. Dr. Flick believes that $100,000 will be sufficient for the purpose, and suggests that twenty wealthy men be invited to contribute $5,000 each. It is his intention, if he bute $5,000 each. It is his intention, it he is successful in getting this fund together at once, to place the money on deposit immediately and permit it to remain und sturbed until 1608. The principal then will be used in defraying the expenses of the congress, and the accumulated interest will be distributed in prizes.

These prizes, in the opinion of Dr. Flick, will go far toward insuring unusual success to the congress itself, and at the same time will have an immediate and far-reaching influence in the warfare against the disease. One of the most important prizes will be given for the greatest reduction in the death rate from tuberculosis in any city of 500,000 inhabitants during the three years from 1905 to 1908. Other prizes proposed will be for the best exhibit of objects entering into the crusade against tuberculosis.

It is proposed to hold the scientific portion of the congress in Washington, the session to continue one week, and the social
